The Pastor's Corner

This week we will conclude our sermon series Re-think Your Story. Hopefully we have learned or at least remembered some things about witnessing that we didn't know or perhaps forgot. This week I am asking each of us to arrive with a list of people who we mostly already know, and we are not certain if they were to die today where their eternal home would be. The whole point of Sunday's sermon is to take our intentionality to the next level. To this list of eternal souls, we will add some basic practices that will in time open doors for us to share our stories. Sometimes it seems easier to go where we are not known to share the gospel, because we are NOT known there. Those who knew us "back when" are often more intimidating to share with. So, what can we do to reduce that fear and create opportunities to tell our story to people close to us? Join us Sunday to find out. See you then!
